

J. Tucker Miller

Executive Coach, President and Founder

I specialize in transformational leadership experiences that and prepare women leaders for expanded impact, confidence, and career advancement.

ONWARD LEADERSHIP

— EXECUTIVE COACHING —

Services

I provide customized individual coaching, speaking and workshops designed to prepare clients for expanded leadership roles through mastering difficult conversations, personal reflection, and experimentation with new practices and more.

Testimonials

Tucker's business expertise and insight into how organizations work make her a great partner in navigating professional and personal growth. I leave every conversation with the belief I can be better as a person and a leader. -- Senior Vice President, Medical Insurance

The impact Tucker has had on my personal and professional growth is profound and I couldn't think of a better person to help our next generation of leaders on their learning journey. She's helped me develop the courage to recognize and face self-limiting barriers and become more confident in leading and achieving results with authenticity. -- Senior Human Resources Leader

The skills I developed as a result of my coaching with Tucker were instrumental in advancing my professional growth. This incremental success and bolstered confidence opened the door to increased leadership responsibilities and more influence within the organization and with my clients. -- Managing Director of Client Development to Fortune 500 Global Companies

About Me

My corporate clients hire me when they identify high-potential women leaders they want to prepare for expanded impact, influence and responsibility.

With over 30 years of experience in senior roles in human resources, employment law, leadership development, management consulting, and sales -- and having worked with executives in companies and agencies of every size -- I provide credible, practical and actionable insights to help coachees confidently advance their careers in alignment with personal and strategic business goals.

Onward Leadership
jtuckermiller@gmail.com; 404.966.8102